the alleged chief, were what prompted William J. Corcoran, former district attorney of Middlesex county, to make a sensational confession to Attorney-General J. Weston Allen and to swear vengeance on some of his former friends, it was learned today.

Corcoran arrived in Boston today from New York and was served with a summons by the State to appear as a witness against Attorney-General J. Weston Allen at the latter's disbarment trial scheduled to start at 9 o'clock Monday, before Justice Charles N. Fenerty in Superior court.

The Boston American today publishes for the first time the inside story of how "Bill" Corcoran came to confess. He had been approached many times by representatives of the ring and then higher up. He kept dumb as directed, according to confidential information today.

WENT TO PORTUGAL. Then he packed his belongings and moved to Portuguese, N. Y. He claimed in his confession that a Boston lawyer urged him to go to Mexico, but that he refused. He said this lawyer then tried to get him to influence him to go. This plan also failed.

Meanwhile, Corcoran was trying to build up a business in New York. Certain persons in Boston were reported to be in mortal dread of him. To them Corcoran resembled a dynamite likely to explode any minute.

He kept his silence for months, despite a growing estrangement among members of the Blackman gang which eventually developed into a feud. According to the Boston American's informant "Bill" Corcoran never had made his statement to Attorney-General Allen just as the State was completing its evidence at the trial of Joseph C. Peltier, the district attorney of Suffolk county, at which those troublemakers had been reached his wife.

DEVOTED WIFE. Mrs. Corcoran had been unwaveringly devoted through her husband's early years. Her faith in him had remained unshaken. She was a source of comfort and confidence, but when those letters reached her she lost patience. She told Corcoran that clandestine correspondence from women of that type was the last straw.

WEALTHY HEIRESS WHO HAS STARTED DIVORCE PROCEEDINGS

Robert Scudell, of Boston, is to be taken back to Lynn from Bridgewater, Ct. to face theft charges and the shattered remains of a romance, in which he and Miss Alma Carlson, of Lynn, figured as principals.

Scudell was arrested in Bridgewater today on a charge of stealing $250 belonging to Miss Carlson, and handed to him by her to start a business of his own in Boston.

Back of that hold police announcement lies a love tale. Scudell is the painter and when he met Miss Carlson, employed by Arthur W. Pinkham, millionaire medicine manufacturer, he painted their future life together in such rosy colors that she says she was blinded.

When he suggested that it would be an excellent thing for him to have a business of his own started before they went to the minister for the wedding ceremony, she agreed, and drew $250 from the bank. It was all the money she had managed to save in years of hard work.

This, she says, she gave to Scudell, who vanished. Later she learned that he had been arrested in Lynn for the theft of the money. She has since been painting her future life together in such rosy colors that she says she was blinded.

When he suggested that it would be an excellent thing for him to have a business of his own started before they went to the minister for the wedding ceremony, she agreed, and drew $250 from the bank. It was all the money she had managed to save in years of hard work.

SENATOR'S WIFE MADE CORCORAN'S CAMP; BATTLE IS FEARED

Corporal Against Irish Provisional Government Believed Set for Easter

London, April 15.—Dublin, Sligo and Belfast today are armed camps while the whole country views with the deepest alarm the approach of Easter Sunday, which is believed to be the date set for a coup against the Irish provisional government.

Easter is the anniversary of the Dublin uprising of 1916. But six years ago the Irish were united against the British. Today they are not against each other.

The public is taking little stock in the statement of Henry O'Connor, a leader of the mutinous faction of the Irish Republican army, that there is not going to be a counter revolution against the Irish Free State.

But O'Connor delivered out that he was speaking only for himself and that he was not responsible for the actions of Eamon de Valera, chief political leader of the Irish republicans.

Recruits for the mutineers continue to flock into Dublin, commanding forces of military supplies and houses for billeting.

The guard of the loyal section of the I. R. A. are constantly being increased by picked troops.

The British soldiers in Dublin are being held in their barracks and will not be used except in case of a real emergency.

GOOD TO ROYALTY'S EX-WIFE

Mrs. Trott Will Take Stand in Behalf of Accused Broker

Mrs. Helen Clay Hartford, an attractive wife and mother, who testified that her husband, Ezra C. H. Hartford, a Boston insurance broker, lashed her with a dog leash until she was "black and blue," and blonde-haired Mrs. Sarah Trott, divorced wife of John A. Trott, are no longer the inseparable "pals" they once were.

They staged a dramatic scene at the close of the first day of Mrs. Hartford's suit for separate support and custody of fourteen-year-old Josephine, heard before Judge White in the East Cambridge State Court. The hearing will be resumed Tuesday.

The two women, who had chummed together for several years, parted at each other, and then named out of the courtroom without a sign of recognition. Mrs. Trott, who resides in Brookline, will take the stand for her husband, her husband figures prominently in the trial as a close friend of Mrs. Hartford.

FOUGHT "OTHER MAN"

Another development was the fact of the name of Charles Mitchell of Hartford, Ct., one of the "many admirers" of Mrs. Hartford, while she was still living with her husband. Cross-examination, she admitted Mitchell and her husband staged a second "Battle of the Century" a year ago in a small court on North Street, Cambridge, when her husband returning home found her and Mitchell preparing to leave for auto ride.

This climaxed a day's testimony, during which Attorney John A. Fawcett, Hartford's counsel, charged that John A. Trott, a former wealthy Boston business man, of Brookline, purchased an expensive touring car, opened check accounts and otherwise lavished money and presents upon Mrs. Hartford. He also declared Trott, who Mrs. Hartford had made several trips together and stopped at New York hotels. Mrs. Hartford denied all the allegations.

Trott was formerly general manager and treasurer of the Riverside Hotel, Worcester, North Cambridge. His former wife is living in Brookline. Hartford is also living in Brookline. His wife resides in Cambridge, she is represented by Attorney Walter E. Brownell.

DEALS OF WHIPPING

After testimony at the late afternoon session by Attorney Fawcett, Mrs. Hartford said she separated from her husband, March 1, 1921, following the whipping she received from him with a dog leash. She said she frequently called him a "bastard."

DENIES LAVISH BUYING

"The plaintiff charged at February 1, 1921, at Hartford, Conn., that she had received from her husband, John A. Trott, had guaranteed, Fawcett wanted to know if Mrs. Hartford denied to a "rushing business" buying various, silk, hosiery, dress furnishings, etc., to which she gave an emphatic "no."

Questioned by her counsel, Attorney Brownell, Mrs. Hartford said that a few days before she was "kicked," Hartford came to her in the presence of a woman, said he was angry, and wanted to live with his family again. She said she decided to give him a week's leave.

WINCHESTER 1-MAN CAR ATTACKED BY BANDITS

An attempt by three youths to hold up a woman car on the Arlington-Winchester line was frustrated when the boys became unnerred at the approach of an automobile, and ran away.

The car had stopped to take on passengers near the Winchester "Crossing Club." The three hoodlums jumped from the side of the car, and tried to force the driver to stop. The car was driven away by the driver, who was not hurt.

At this time the headlights of an auto which had been driven away, over a few hundred yards away, were seen. The driver of the car, who was not hurt, was seen to have been in the car and the road and made their escape.

MOUNTAIN CONQUERED BY CONNECTICUT BOY

Alexander, Arden, April 15.—After baffling several mountaineering parties, the great Mount Algonquin, one of the highest peaks in the Caucasus, has been conquered by two American college athletes, H. S. Anderson of Connecticut and H. Davis of Arkansas.

SUPPORTED HER ROYAL SPOUSE, SAYS SINGER

Following the return of a large number of secret indictments by the Middlesex Grand Jury, State and municipal detectives of Greater Boston today began to round up alleged members of the "Tag" Wilson-Gilf Crozier-Dave Egan band of gunmen.

Wilson, Crozier and Egan, as well as "Rally" Doyle, Wilson's Medford second-in-command, were arrested before Justice thrown in the Middlesex Superior Court after being indicted by the Grand Jury.

Miss Doyle, dressed in a neat blue suit with a white collar, was led in by Deputy Sheriff Bernard P. Dwyer of Lowell and Court Officer William R. Davis of Cambridge.

WILSON SNUBS GIRL

During the court proceedings, save when she bent her head to her hands and wept, "Rally" Doyle kept her eyes glued to Wilson. In passing through the lower corridor she had made a fruitless attempt to speak to him. He seemed to ignore her presence entirely.

Following the formal handing down of the indictments by the foreman of the Grand Jury, Wilson was called to the bar.

The first indictment charged him in three counts, with assaulting Metropolitan Park Police Officers (Jordan A. Frost, A. W. Bradley and Francis J. Pithcock, with a revolver with intent to murder.

The second charged him with assaulting John Murphy on February 21 with a revolver, and stealing $1,355.76, a revolver and jewelry, property of the Somerville Trust Company.

The third charged him with assaulting and robbing Harold W. Smith of $10, on December 27.

The fourth charged him with stealing six cigars of cigarettes in Wakefield, May 9, and with receiving stolen property.

The fifth charged him with stealing an auto from Louis E. Thayer on March 22, and with receiving stolen property.

Judge Brown granted Sheriff Arthur Belmont's request that Wilson be held without bail, and ready for trial May 8.

Crozier was charged with the Murphy robbery, and with the Wakefield cigarette theft. He was held in $10,000 with these arrests. As each of the sureties must qualify in $10,000, this is equivalent to $30,000 bail.

Kaizer, already under $5,000 bail in another case, was held in $5,000 additional, on a charge of stealing the Wakefield cigarettes.

Miss Doyle was led to the bar weeping profusely. She asked pitifully as the clerk read out the indictment of these counts charging her in the several stragglings of the law with "harboring, maintaining and concealing" Tag Wilson following the shooting of Pithcock and the alleged numerous attacks on Frost and Bradley. She pleaded not guilty.

Instead of screaming, Miss Doyle quietly walked to the house of Frederick H. Kenyon adjoining Kenyon telephoned the police. Before the officers arrived, the thief had taken silent flight.

Vokes made his home at No. 4 Grover street, Everett.

BIG FIGHT TO BE FIGHT ON NAVAL BILL

Washington, April 15.—Rumored opposition in the ranks of House members as they squared away today for the first big fight over the so-called naval bill.

Many hours of debate were ahead of the vote, expected late in the day, should the committee proposal be adopted, as chairman Kelley claimed.

There would be no chance of a reversed vote in the House proper, but should the amendment proposed for $500,000, as its backers claimed, the House would have to wait in the House, in the hope of overturning it.

CLEVELAND BANDITS ESCAPE WITH $50,000

Cleveland, April 15.—Three bandits who had been held in custody since their arrest in Cleveland last week escaped with $50,000, the ransom for the release of a woman held captive while being taxed to lead quarters by two detectives.

TO POLICE STATION

There followed only his knowledge of what he knew and maybe will tell today in Charles town Court. Maybe he sorrowed when he had no way to get to his mother, sick herself from heart trouble, a sister who was a woman in 110 pounds, but with a heart as big as an all outdoors.

Maybe he grew desperate when he saw her live grown into an old woman, and he tried to smile off sorrow. It must be hard to see the real all gone, the leader empty, your heart's little mother with "tear-stained cheeks and a crippled brother sitting beneath a blanket for want of heat. It must be hard when you are willing to work and cannot find work to do.

When arrested for the Boston diamond thefts, she seemed puzzled on a memorandum, performed quietly while being taxed to lead quarters by two detectives.

Johnny Burke's Spartan Mother Hated to Do It, but Right Prevailed

Johnny Burke's mother said that she had been told that her son had been killed in the war. She had been told that her son had been killed in the war. She had been told that her son had been killed in the war.

Johnny is one of the three Burke boys. One is a helpless cripple. The other is jobless. Johnny is the main support of the family.

Whenever Johnny's name was mentioned the eyes of Mrs. Burke lit up as only mother love can light up eyes. "Wanted to be the huckleberry and finish looking in the neighborhood of their home on No. 43 Brighton street, Charleston."

SMILED OFF SORROW

Well, times suddenly got hard a few weeks ago and Johnny lost his job. What followed only he knows and maybe will tell today in Charles town Court. Maybe he sorrowed when he had no way to get to his mother, sick herself from heart trouble, a sister who was a woman in 110 pounds, but with a heart as big as an all outdoors.

week and a 19 per cent. cut in wages, with the guarantee that no more than one strike up the 10 per cent. reduction will be made and the wages remissar for war in the Russian Soviet government, today issued a general order to the Red army, saying that Russia would not de-militarize any of her soldiers until

"France's refusal at the Genoa capitalist countries—and first and most among them victorious France—desire to preserve in their hands their mightiest weapon for conquest and the oppression of weak and disarmed nations. We desire peace."

ST. LAWRENCE RIVER PROJECT OPPOSED

By a vote of 17 to 2, the joint New England Committee on Foreign and Domestic Commerce has gone on record as being opposed to the St. Lawrence river development project.

The decision of this committee approved by the Governors of the New England States, was announced today by George E. Dix, New England representatives of the Waterways Conference Committee.

Henry L. Harriman of the New England Water Power Company, a

Coxey to March Army to Capital Again if Bonus Is Denied

Washington, April 15.—"General" Jacob S. Coxey told President Harding at the White House that he will march another army of the unemployed to Washington unless Congress acts quickly on his bill to create flat money to provide work, and a soldier bonus. He said to the President:

"This is rather a peculiar incident that today, Good Friday, the 1922 anniversary of the crucifixion of Christ, should be the day selected by you to grant me a brief interview, because I am here to drive the money changers out of the temple, for which he was crucified, and that I am here from the dead, to my sixty-ninth birthday."

He pleaded with the President to be a President of the people, by the people and for the people, and not of the banks, by the banks and for the banks."

He also asserted their belief that the loss which New England community would suffer would not be eaten by any benefits to the western shippers.

FACTS, FADS AND FASHIONS OF BOSTON'S STAGE AND ELSEWHERE

ANNA MAE CLIFF, one of the brightest of the bright lights in the Greenwich Village Follies at the Shubert Theatre. It certainly is folly to miss the Follies this year.

THIS DRESS, worn by "Dolores," who comes to the Colonial in "Sally" on April 24, costs more than most automobiles and five times as much as some makes. She wears it in "Sally."

DANCING MOONBEAMS! Lovers of the poetry of rhythm have a treat in store for them when Vera Fokina, the celebrated European dancer, comes to Symphony Hall next Tuesday evening. She has added several new dances to her wide repertoire.

AN OLD FRIEND Who Seemingly Grows Younger! Mary Young whose talents add much to the interesting play, "We Girls," current at the Arlington Theatre.

A PLAY FOR MINORS AND MINERS! Gertrude Vanderbilt, the irrepressible, is one of the delightful reasons why you should see "The Gold Diggers" coming to the Tremont Monday night.

CORN FED AND PROUD OF IT! Miss "California" Gibson manages a $500,000 California ranch of 2,177 acres. She also has charge of an irrigation district. Outside of this she hasn't anything to do. Has New England a woman farmer who can beat this record? (Keystone.)

GETTING A FOOTHOLD ON ART! Miss Dorothy Hughes, 18-year-old Newton girl, who possesses the most beautiful hands and the most perfect feet of any art student in Boston. Her slender hand and feet suggest those of the Grecian girls of old.

SUN FO, at 31, is the first Mayor of Canton, China. He was educated in America and says Boston has done more to educate America than any other one city. (Underwood.)

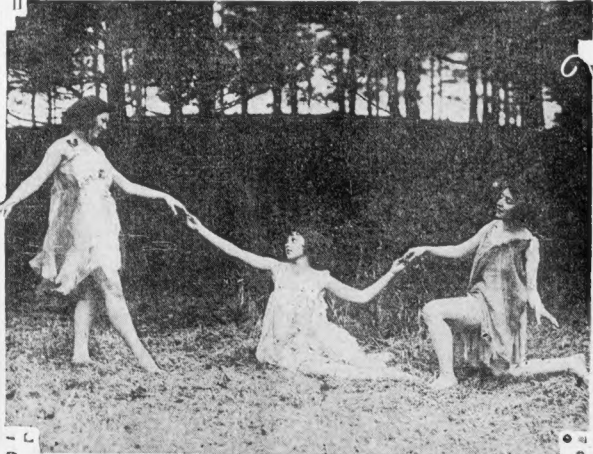

MISS FLORENCE C. JEFFERSON of Utah, who is fighting an injunction in the Suffolk Superior Court to restrain her from bringing up her three nieces as Morlocks.

READY FOR A FIGHT OR A FROLIC! John Wiggate Weeks, former Massachusetts Senator and Secretary of War, as he looked on his 62d birthday, which, for the most part, was celebrated at his desk. Many floral remembrances were sent him by Greater Boston friends and admirers, some of which are shown in the photograph. (Keystone.)

"HER FEET BENEATH HER PETTICOAT LIKE LITTLE MICE STOLE IN AND OUT, as if they feared the light! but, oh, she dances such a way!"—one sun upon an Easter Day is half so fine a sight! Everything has its interpretation in the dance, they say, as here is how these talented Boston dancers convey the spirit of Easter. Left to right, Elisabeth Raynes of Melrose, Mildred Mosman of Cambridge and Dorothy Dana of Boston. Help others to help themselves! seems to be the motif.

"One evening we allowed the Grand Duke Boris to see some of our guests playing a little game of cards out under the trees. I was strolling in the moonlight through the grounds on the arm of my royal guest, when we happened across a little group of players in the pagoda near our riverside yacht landing. They had, of course, been carefully planted there by Hunsbury."
"Oh, let's not waste our time with such stupid things as cards!" I urged, tugging at the Duke's arm. "We will look in on them for a moment, but I do hope you do not idle your time away at bocce."
"So I took him into the pagoda, and just then a message from one of my guests summoned me to the kitchen, thus conveniently enabling me to leave Boris with the players."
